MEETS THE MOMENT

THE HOMELESS FAMILIES FOUNDATION 2020 ANNUAL REPORT TO OUR COMMUNITY
EVERY YEAR APPROXIMATELY 1,200 FAMILIES AND 3,000 CHILDREN ARE HOMELESS IN COLUMBUS. EVERY DAY THAT WE FAIL TO END HOMELESSNESS IS ANOTHER DAY REAL FAMILIES AND CHILDREN ARE LIVING WITHOUT A HOME. WE MUST ACT EVERY DAY WITH PURPOSE TO BREAK THIS CYCLE.

The Homeless Families Foundation (HFF) was founded in 1986 by community volunteers who believed it was unacceptable for any child to be homeless and that belief continues to fuel HFF’s mission and programming. We believe all children in our community should have a home—and the key to ending homelessness is a stable family. We must work together with a sense of urgency to break the generational cycle of homelessness by fostering independence for families who are currently living in poverty and crisis.

The great equalizer in society is a good education. The great resilience builder in life is hope. At HFF we create a hopeful, nurturing environment for families and children where they are engaged in year round education, housing assistance and supportive services. HFF has a variety of programs that empower struggling families and expectant mothers to achieve stable housing and self-sufficiency. HFF’s education program educates and nurtures children, Pre-K through 8th grade, from the Franklinton community and beyond with afterschool and summer programs, and home visits that provide both education and intervention.

Dear Friends,

Like many of you, I will remember the year 2020 as the most challenging year of my lifetime. Watching the world and our communities deal with the pain and anxiety of the COVID pandemic, systemic and institutional racism, and deep political division, our “new” normal became one of stress and uncertainty for the future. This unprecedented time of need could have easily overwhelmed us at HFF; instead, it gave us a renewed sense of purpose and focus on what is most important. Stable, thriving children and families.

When the world began to shut down, HFF ramped up our work. Through incredible efforts in teamwork, we found creative ways to reimagine our existing programs and services. Continuing to move homeless families from shelter to their own homes, and expanding case management by adding virtual visits, and meeting families on porches and parks. Delivering daily meals to students when schools closed, and emergency rent assistance to families who lost jobs due to closure and lack of childcare. Pivoting our education programs from traditional after-school to daytime Learning Extension Centers and providing tablets to children so they had the technology to complete their schoolwork.

As the pandemic continued throughout the year, we saw our community’s most vulnerable residents feeling the negative effects of COVID more acutely, as those living in poverty have less resources to successfully navigate and recover from loss of employment, illness and other pandemic-related stresses.

Columbus’ lowest income households were struggling to pay rent, utilities and make ends meet before the pandemic, and now are facing increased risks of evictions and homelessness due to job losses and reduced wages. We knew we had to do more, so HFF sought out new funding and resources to expand our core services and began new programs to fill gaps in our community’s service network which were widened by the pandemic. With unwavering support from our government and foundation partners, volunteers, and our corporate and private donors, HFF has added new programs and services to serve homeless and at-risk pregnant women, transition age youth and families. National recognition from the Bezos Day 1 Families Fund, and 60 Minutes, has highlighted the amazing work of our HFF staff and Board, which has helped us garner more and more volunteers, donors and support for our HFF mission.

Looking toward 2021, I am incredibly optimistic for the future. Our HFF family, including our resilient children, young adults and families, faced seemingly insurmountable challenges in 2020 and are still standing. We are committed to using our lessons learned to get stronger, advocate louder and fight harder for our community’s most vulnerable.

With gratitude,

HFF DIVERSITY & INCLUSION STATEMENT

At HFF, Diversity and Inclusion are more than just words; they are values and principles that guide our work. The families and children we serve are resilient, diverse, and multi-cultural, and we are committed to reflecting this in our Staff, Board and workplace. With resolve and intent, we are striving to create an environment where everyone feels empowered to be their full, authentic self. Where all voices are welcomed, heard and valued. Where our similarities are embraced, our differences respected, and both are celebrated for the value they bestow.

With gratitude,

Beth Fetzer-Rice, Executive Director

As stay-at-home orders were enacted in mid-March, our immediate attention turned to sharing information and critical resources with the families we serve, as well as providing for our families’ most immediate needs: food, internet access and additional financial assistance. With our offices closed to the public, our amazing case workers began delivering food and essential household necessities, but shifted to completing paperwork via telephone and online meetings. Always dedicated to building authentic relationships with our families, our case workers actually experienced increased success in meaningful engagement, despite the challenges before them. When school closures were extended through May 1, the Dowd Education Center transitioned to online learning, including the creation of a private web portal and Facebook group to share daily virtual education. Students also received regular delivery of meal kits, made possible in part by the number of businesses, organizations and private individuals who increased existing gifts or made new ones in response to the pandemic.

COVID continued to highlight the racial disparities in wealth and health our agency confronts in its daily work, we, along with our nation, watched as the unspeakable horror of institutional, systemic racism was exposed to our nation at large. Our Executive Director was one of the original 750 signatories on a letter to Columbus City Council declaring racism a Public Health Crisis; our staff participated in the June 5 “March to End Racism” at City Hall; our organization re-committed to reflecting resiliency, diversity and multi-culturalism in its Staff, Board and workplace. The subsequent murders of George Floyd, Daunte Wright and Andre Hill prove, piercingly, how far we have to go. HFF stands ready to advance this work in both our organization and our community.

There was light, though, as well. Later in June HFF partnered with Columbus State Community College, the Columbus State Metropolitan Housing Authority, the Afforable Housing Alliance of Central Ohio and the Community Shelter Board to launch “Success Bridge,” a program providing stable housing assistance to students. Our Ridge Runner Ramble fundraiser took place virtually from June 1 - 7; “ride on your own” routes in Dublin, New Albany, Canal Winchester and Grove City raised more than $14,000 in funding for our programs.

But it wasn’t just our families who had a special holiday season — it was HFF itself. December also brought the news that HFF had received a $1.25 million grant from the Bezos Day 1 Families Fund, allowing us to continue serving those impacted the most and the most unfairly by this pandemic for as long as they need, and to continue growing our staff and programs to meet the demands of the year ahead. For this gift, we are humbled and grateful.

HFF RECEIVES DAY 1 FAMILIES FUND GRANT

The Homeless Families Foundation learned in early December that it had been selected to receive a $1.25 million grant from the Day 1 Families Fund. Launched in 2018 by Amazon founder and CEO Jeff Bezos, the Day 1 Families Fund issues annual leadership awards to organizations and civic groups doing compassionate, needle-moving work to provide shelter and hunger support to address the immediate needs of young families.

HFF was one of 42 nonprofits across the U.S. to receive the third annual Day 1 Families Fund grants, as part of a continuing commitment by the Day 1 Families Fund to help end homelessness for families. The Day 1 Families Fund issued a total of $105.9 million in grants in 2020; to select these organizations, the fund worked with an advisory board of homelessness advocates and leaders whose expertise spans housing justice, racial equity, direct services, homelessness policy, equity for Native American communities and anti-poverty work.

The one-time grant, awarded to organizations doing meaningful work to connect families with shelter and support, will allow The Homeless Families Foundation to expand and strengthen its best practice programming, providing holistic, integrated family stability services to assist in transitioning parents and children from homelessness to housing stability, particularly in the aftermath of the COVID-19 pandemic. As eviction moratoriums expire and pandemic assistance programs end, many of our families will be the last to “return to normal” – and that “normal” may still be a paycheck-to-paycheck, diaper-to-diaper battle. Struggling service industries, at which many of our families work, may remain slow to re-hire. Our working single mothers will continue to wrestle with affordable options for child care. Institutional and systemic racism, too often at the heart of housing inequity, will not simply disappear. The Day 1 Families Fund grant will allow HFF to directly address and counteract such challenges by providing essential resources to the existing and emerging programs that will be vital to providing ongoing support to our families, and to fulfilling our ultimate mission: Not one child ... not one night.

WE MISSED OUR VOLUNTEERS DURING 2020. Although we had a limited number of volunteer activities following CDC guidelines for safety, we had very limited in-person activities. This didn’t stop our wonderful volunteers. Many of them conducted drives for cleaning supplies, food, school supplies, household goods and personal items needed by families and children. We are looking forward to having in-person volunteer activities again soon.
